SUPREME COURT SAYS APPARATUS TO MAKE HOME BREW ILLEGAL

Manufacturer And Stores
Will Be Target Of Ruling

WASHINGTON, May 6.—An entirely new chapter in the history of prohibition enforcement has been opened by the unanimous decision of the supreme court that apparatus for the manufacture of home brew may be legally seized and confiscated by enforcement agents.

Legal authorities were agreed on this today, even while they differed widely in their interpretations of the court's decision. Everywhere in enforcement and legal quarters the decision was under microscopic scrutiny, with nobody apparently quite sure how far agents may go.

While the implications contained in the court's decision are virtually boundless, the language employed is carefully drawn, so carefully, in fact, that even the officials of the prohibition bureau stepped carefully today in its interpretation.

The whole matter, Justice Holmes emphasized, turns on interpretation of the word "manufacture" as used in the prohibitory laws. The court chose to interpret the word liberally, but at the same time was not so liberal in its own use of words.

Said the court: "The word (manufacture) may be used in a loose way to express the whole process by which an article is made ready for sale in the open market."

AFFAIRS OF MERGER VEILED IN SECRECY AS DIRECTORS MEET

Have Nothing To Say
After Session In Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 6.—The veil of secrecy which was held over the special meeting of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company directors yesterday, today started a "round robin" of rumors in financial circles as to the status of affairs in the fight over the merger of the Youngstown concern with Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The special directors meeting was called to discuss the disposition of stock dissenting from the merger. Following a three-hour session, the directors emerged with an announcement that there was "nothing for publication."

Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who has waged a bitter battle against the consummation of the merger, merely commented that the meeting was "very agreeable."

Some financial observers regard the attitudes following the meeting as significant that a compromise has been reached in the merger fight. Others look upon the silence of Sheet and Tube directors as meaning that nothing definite was reached regarding the disposition of dissenting stock.

Meantime, Eaton's attorneys who are preparing for a hearing on a suit to enjoin the merger, continued to weld their chain of evidence. Depositions were scheduled to be taken here today from stockholders and directors associated with Sheet and Tube.

Officials of the Scott A. Rogers company reported that burglars gained entrance to their building and looted $527 from a desk.

Two street jobs netted gunmen more than $100 in cash.

TWO OHIO SOLDIERS HURT BY "DUD" SHELL

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Albert J. Allen, 20, of Mechanicsville, N. Y., and William Falk, 20, of Moxahala, Ohio, privates attached to the 62nd Coast Artillery, at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., are patients at Walter Reed Hospital today as the result of a "dud" shell exploding in their hands.

Allen's left arm was amputated at the elbow and he may lose his right arm. He also suffered severe cuts on the legs. Falk escaped with a fractured leg and body cuts.

The shell had been fired from a field piece and failed to explode.

BALL PLAYER BETTER

DAYTON, O., May 6.—Attending physicians today expected Billy Moore, 19, Aviator and Central League shortstop, to recover. Moore's skull was fractured when he was hit by a pitched ball during a game with a Fort Wayne team late Monday. His home is in Louisville, Ky.

VIOLENCE FOLLOWS JAILING OF LEADER AND MANY INJURED

Mrs. Gandhi Takes Up
Mantle Of Husband;
Business Halts

LONDON, May 6.—A series of riots, resulting in numerous injuries, occurred in various parts of India today as independents resorted to violent means to protest the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader.

The most serious outbreak was at Howrah, a suburb of Calcutta, where, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch, a mob of 3,000 Indians attempted to derail a train.

Police attempting to disperse the demonstrators were attacked with brick-bats. A sergeant of police was seriously injured, and fifteen Indians were wounded when police were forced to use fire arms to scatter the unruly crowd.

A Central News Dispatch from Bombay described assaults by strike pickets in the mill districts of the city. Passersby were stoned, and a number of European motorists were injured. Troops were rushed to the affected areas to hold the demonstrators in check.

Three thousand Bombay millhands attempted to set fire to the Wadri Textile Mills. They scattered when a guard fired a revolver shot over their heads.

Another violent incident was reported at Delhi. Dispatches to the evening newspapers stated an ugly mob wrecked an automobile containing two police commissioners. Both escaped injury, but several Indians were wounded when the police charged the mob with bamboo staves.

Armored cars, detachments of Indian cavalry and British infantry are patrolling the area, the messages said.

At Lahore, many were injured in a clash between police and Indian congress volunteers.

An unruly crowd attacked a detachment of police with stones at Calcutta, other dispatches said. The police replied to the attack with revolver shots. The extent of casualties was not known.

Repercussions of Gandhi's arrest were felt as far north as Jullundur, upper India, where police were forced to charge a rioting mob with staves, injuring several.

Armed police and soldiers were called out to quell activities of Nationalist extremist rioters in Pegu, north of Rangoon, chief sufferer from the earthquakes and floods reported to have caused many deaths in the vicinity.

BOMBAY, May 6.—A woman, the hosts of India leaning toward her cause, defied British rule in India today.

Her husband, Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, Nationalist leader of the civil disobedience campaign against Britain, was in the Yeroda jail, a prisoner of his foes. He was arrested at Surat yesterday and brought to Yeroda, adjacent to Poona, where a strong British force is garrisoned.

When Gandhi left his wife bound for incarceration, he said, when asked if there was a message for her.

"What message? She is a brave woman!"

He cleaned his teeth with salt, took up his hand spinning wheel and departed with his captors.

When his train stopped at Borivili, he left a farewell message for the western hemisphere:—"Tell the people of America to study my issues closely and judge them on their merits," he said.

Stating that he did not antic-

STUDENT RIOT

FATAL TO THREE

MADRID, May 6.—Peace apparently had been temporarily restored on the campus of the University of Madrid today where rioting resulted in the death of three students and the wounding of thirty at an anti-Royalist demonstration last night.

The cabinet held a long session last night and issued a note regretting the student clashes and promising stern repression of further disorders. It expressed hope for continuance of the good will existing between itself and the university.

POLICE PREVENT ROBBERY OF BANK

The Xenia Ave. branch of the Union Trust Co., Dayton, was the scene of bloodshed when one bandit was killed and three others lost their lives at Pegu were not verified in later dispatches from the stricken district.

CLEVELAND MURDER IS SOLVED BY CONFESSION

TWO PEOPLE KILLED AS TORNADOES STRIKE SOUTH-WEST STATES

Random Twisters Felt
In Oklahoma, Kansas
And Nebraska

KANSAS CITY, Kan., May 6.—A series of tornadoes, striking at random in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, killed two persons yesterday, injured several others and inflicted a huge property damage, a checkup showed.

Mrs. C. T. Bush and an unidentified Negro farmhand were killed when one of the twisters struck Blaine County and leveled several buildings. The Bush home was wrecked in the storm.

A small tornado which struck Walters, Okla., injured five men. Dwellings and farm buildings in western Oklahoma were wrecked by several twisters.

MAYWOOD, Ill., May 6.—A swath of wreckage today lay in the wake of a mild tornado which whipped through the residential area here late yesterday, tearing down houses and uprooting trees.

The twister broke an 86 degree heat wave in the Chicago area and was followed by heavy rainfall.

Three farmhouses were completely unroofed, garages were torn down and hundreds of windows smashed. One home was completely turned around on its foundation.

FORMER POLITICAL LEADER SUCUMB

COLUMBUS, O., May 6.—Death today had claimed a former prominent figure in politics of the Buckeye State, Eli Marion West, 78, who unexpectedly died at his local home last night.

West was the main henchman to Governor Joseph B. Foraker. He was the builder of Olentangy Park in Columbus, and was a former president of the Columbus Bill Posting Company.

FIND PROPAGANDA FOR SOVIET PARTY

BERLIN, May 6.—Police have discovered secret Communist records in Slonim, near Novogrudok, which contained propaganda for use among Polish peasants according to Telegraph-Union dispatches here today.

The police arrested several Communists among whom, they said, were agents of the Soviet government.

KILLED BY AUTO

CINCINNATI, O., May 6.—Vincent McGahan, 24, is dead here today as the result of a fractured skull which he received when he was struck by an automobile that was driven by Clifford Chitwood. Chitwood is being held on a charge of manslaughter.

RANGOON AREA SUFFERS FROM WAVE AND FIRE

Reports That 6,000 Die
Not Verified; Check
Is Slow

LONDON, May 6.—Disrupted communication facilities today prevented a complete check of the casualties caused by the earthquake which ravaged a large section of Burma Province, India.

Central News and Exchange Telegraph dispatches from Rangoon said that seventy were known to be dead in that city, and that at least 500 lives were feared to have been lost at Pegu, fifty miles further north, where a tidal wave and devastating fire followed in the wake of the temblors.

Early reports that 6,000 had lost their lives at Pegu were not verified in later dispatches from the stricken district.

Crumpling hundreds of houses in Rangoon and Pegu, the quake was regarded by superstitious Indians as a supernatural demonstration over the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi. Nationalist leader now languishing in jail near Poona for his campaign of civil disobedience against British rule.

Dispatches to the evening newspapers from Rangoon stated that terrible desolation followed in the wake of the tremor at Pegu. A tidal wave following the quake was reported to have wiped out scores of lives while fire which swept the homes and buildings demolished by the quake added to the horror.

Disrupted communication facilities, which prevented news of the disaster from reaching the outside world for hours, today made an adequate check of the damage and casualties impossible.

From the fragmentary dispatches reaching here, it appears the first quake occurred soon after sundown last night, followed by a series of minor tremors culminating in an extremely violent disturbance at 8:15 p. m. which reduced large sections of Rangoon and Pegu to matchwood.

Soon after the waters of the Sittoung River rose in a tidal wave, inundating a large area of the latter city.

During the late hours of the night, while the wreckage of the quake was still smoldering, long lines of natives formed in a mournful procession chanting prayers and blaming the disaster on the arrest of Gandhi by the British authorities.

Dispatches filed direct from Rangoon by creditable correspondents stated the hospitals there were filled to overflowing with wounded, while all business was at a standstill.

FOUR YOUTHS FACING DEATH

Boys Indicted On Murder Charge

CINCINNATI, O., May 6.—Four youths, all of them less than twenty years old, today were facing the possibility of death in the electric chair after being indicted on first-degree murder charges less than forty-eight hours after their arrest early Sunday morning.

The four boys are Claude Catron, 19, Thomas Elliot, alias Lawrence, 17, Clarence Cole, 17, and Robert Smith, 19, all of Cincinnati.

The youthful alleged murderers are charged with the killing of Lewis Kioane, 55, who met death when he resisted the boys' attempt to hold up and rob Shugars Food Shop, located at Reading Road and Clinton Springs Avenue, on April 27.

Arraignment of the young bandits before Judge Chester R. Shook in criminal division is expected to take place today or tomorrow.

STATE WORKER QUILTS

COLUMBUS, O., May 6.—Resignation of Dr. E. J. Emerick, Columbus, as director of the bureau of juvenile research, state welfare department, was in the hands of Hal H. Griswold, state welfare director, today. The resignation is effective June 1.

TWO KILLED BY EXPLOSIONS IN PENNSYLVANIA; BOMB BLAMED

AMBRIDGE, Pa., May 6.—Two men were killed instantly, nearby buildings were rocked and property damage estimated at $30,000 resulted today when two terrific explosions destroyed a fruit market and a nearby shoe store in the business district here today.

One of the bodies recovered from the wreckage was identified as that of Joseph Mosteller, 47, of this city. The other body has not yet been identified.

ONE BANDIT KILLED, THREE OTHERS SHOT IN DAYTON HOLD-UP

Unidentified Bandit Captured, Two Others Escape;
Little Girl Wounded In Fusillade; Police
Guards Foil Robbery

DAYTON, May 6.—An unidentified bank bandit was shot and killed, three others were wounded and a four-year-old girl was hurt by a stray bullet today in an attempt to hold up the Xenia Ave. branch of the Union Trust Co., in a factory district here.

When the four bandits arrived with a machine gun and a shot gun and entered the bank, Policeman W. T. Dempsey, who had been stationed at the institution after a $35,000 hold up there April 4, opened fire through a glass partition. He shot down James Royan, 21, of St. Louis, Mo.

The other three fled to the street and the policeman followed firing his repeating shot gun. Royan, in a local hospital, is expected to die. Lorene Burton, 4, was wounded by a stray bullet but not seriously as was first believed.

The three remaining bandits commandeered a small truck but one desperado jumped from the truck and exchanged shots with Dempsey. Dempsey shot and wounded him and the man died in a local hospital a short time later.

A small coupe was abandoned by the desperados. Two of the shotguns which the bandits carried were recovered by police. Policeman J. B. Hoch was with Dempsey in the rear room of the bank when the hold-up started. He ran to a rear door and around the side of the building hoping to head off the bandits. They had fled however. The attempt to hold up the bank here today, recalled the robbery of the Piquette National Bank at Piquette, near here, a few weeks ago by a similar number of bandits.

Xenia police were notified to be on the look-out for the escaping bandits and Police Chief O. H. Cornwell, Patrolman Fred Jones and deputies of the sheriff's office began patrolling the Dayton Pike beyond the city limits, in the belief the robbers might have escaped in the direction of this city.

UNRULY PRISONERS CONFINED IN CELLS ON BREAD AND WATER

Resist Efforts To Check Reported
Escapes

COLUMBUS, O., May 6.—With nothing except bread and water as a diet, seventy-five convicts are locked in "white city" cells at Ohio State Penitentiary here today.

There had been fifty prisoners confined there—Inmates who had refused to work. That number was augmented by twenty-five more yesterday evening when many criminals refused to give their names during the check-up of inmates of the prison.

Officials are attempting to learn, definitely, if more than one prisoner escaped on the night of the first, April 21, when 320 lives were lost. Michael Dorn is the one who made his escape, walking out of the prison disguised as a hospital interne. He was later captured in Cleveland.

It is believed that many of the convicts are giving fictitious or wrong names, and furnishing false information, due to "pure cussedness" and a desire to hinder authorities as much as possible, and possibly to protect "buddies" who may have escaped.

The unruly prisoners who are eating only bread and drinking nothing except water in "white city," are securely imprisoned in the cells which are not only locked but are further fastened by chains.

It was reported today that one of the tents in the barbed-wire stockade was damaged by fire Monday night. Prisoners are believed to have set the tent on fire.

Besides the seventy-five "bad babies" who are on the bread-and-water diet in "white city," 200 other prisoners have been returned to cells there. Convicts prefer to be housed in the cells, finding them more comfortable than the tents in the open-air stockade.

DIPLOMAT AND PARTY ROBBED

Minister To U. S. Is Target
Of Bandits

BUCHAREST, May 6.—A gang of daring bandits today held up and robbed Carol A. Davila, Romanian minister to the United States, and a number of companions while they were returning to Bucharest in an automobile from the palace of Prince Bibesco.

Among those in the car were Charles A. Dewey, American financial adviser to Poland, and the Countess Szembek, wife of the Polish minister to Bucharest.

The occupants of Davila's limousine narrowly escaped injury when the bandits fired upon the car. Several of the bullets smashed through the windows but no one was hit.

The car was brought to a stop, and at pistol points the bandits demanded the party hand over all their valuables. They were stripped of all their jewelry and money, worth several thousand dollars.

The bandits then permitted the car to proceed toward Bucharest. The chauffeur raced to the city and a nation wide alarm was broadcast immediately for the bandits.

MIDDLEPORT, O., May 6.—On the day when she was to have been married, Miss Violet Burris, 22, of Middleport, died here today. She died early this morning in Holzer Hospital, Gallipolis, as the result of an auto accident.

Miss Burris, and Virgil Will, of Rocksprings, her intended husband, were auto riding Monday night when the car left the road and hit a tree on Gravel Hill here.

Will escaped injury.

Miss Burris was graduated from the Pomeroy High School in 1923. She was a star basketball player.

VALUABLE HOMES IN FOREST FIRE PATH; BLAZE SWEEPING ON

Thousands Are Fighting
Flames; Workers
Pray For Rain

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., May 6.—Valuable and fashionable summer homes of wealthy residents of New York, Philadelphia and other cities were in the danger zone of a stubborn forest fire which continued to sweep on in the lower Berkshire hills range at the corner of New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts today.

The wall of flame was estimated to be twenty-five miles in length and two thousand men and women, working in relays and building back fires to stop the advance of the main blaze, were giving battle to the flames.

The fashionable estates in the hills, each worth thousands of dollars, were patrolled by rangers and employees ready for any emergency.

BOSTON, May 6.—Men, women and children engaged in fighting woodland and brush fires throughout New England today were praying for rain as the only relief from the worst fire destruction in the history of this section of the country.

At least 15,000 separate fires had blackened the 300,000 acres doing damage estimated at $20,000,000. Of this total Massachusetts alone has fought 700 fires which have swept over 60,000 acres. The loss to the Bay State was $300,000 thus far. This did not include the $1,000,000 incendiary fire in Holyoke.

XENIAN WINS TWO PRIZES IN PARADE

R. Hayes Hamilton, Xenia, won two first prizes in the annual floral parade at Hamilton, Bermuda, April 26. He received the first prize of ten guineas ($50) for the floral float, "The Princess," entered in the parade in behalf of the Princess Hotel with which Mr. Hamilton is connected and received a silver cup as first prize for an additional entry, a floral horse, labelled "Our Best Friend" and which was drawn on a wagon by three girls in riding costumes. There are few motors in Bermuda and the horse is the principal means of transportation. Mr. Hamilton is shown above left, receiving the cash prize for the float from His Excellency Lieut. General Sir Louis Jean Bols, K. C. B., K.M.C.G., D. S. O., British governor of the island.

LAL BAGH MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS OPEN MEET

Members of Lal Bagh Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church held an open meeting at the church Monday evening.

Miss Emma Elbright presided at the meeting and opened it with responsive reading on the subject: "Missions."

A musical program followed. Misses Dorothy Devore and Helen Spahr sang a group of duet numbers accompanied at the piano by Miss Emma LaMar. Miss Helen Wike, accompanied by Miss LaMar, sang a group of solo numbers.

A feature of the evening's program was the showing of slides which showed the child life of Africa, India and China. The Rev. L. A. Washburn showed the slides while Mrs. Washburn lectured about them.

During the business session a nominating committee was chosen. Those chosen to serve were: Mrs. Minor Monroe, Miss Wella Shipley and Mrs. Lester Buell.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. B. F. Thomas, N. Detroit St., and will be the annual election of officers meeting and each one is asked to bring her mite box.

ORIENT HILL P. T. A. HAS ANNUAL ELECTION.

Mrs. Ancl Stephens was elected vice-president, Mrs. Alfred Fehman, secretary and Mrs. Harry Lewis, treasurer.

Supt. Louis Hammer gave an interesting address at the close of the meeting and urged mothers to attend the field day meet, Friday.

During the business session members voted for a picnic supper to be held at the close of the school year when the new officers will be installed. All residents of Orient Hill and members of the P. T. A. are urged to attend the picnic and bring well filled baskets.

Miss Dona Clare Sholey attended the Delta Omicron banquet and initiation at Miami University, Oxford, over the week end. Delta Omicron is a national honorary music sorority.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE BEST WORTHLESS WITHOUT LOVE—And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.—1 Cor. 13:2.

THOUSANDS OF REINDEER

At one time known only to children as the steeds of Santa Claus at Christmas time, reindeer have increased in numbers in Canada and Alaska until today they are a commercial asset. Reindeer meat, once considered a delicacy, may become quite common in the butcher shops of the United States. Its flavor, according to epicures, is a combination of breast of mallard duck and lamb.

The reindeer is native to the northern parts of Europe, Asia, and America. Both male and female have antlers. The male antlers are long and spreading, often somewhat like the palm of a hand at the ends. Over the brow of the male are broad, highly developed prongs or tines. The female antlers are similar, but much smaller and more simple. The reindeer of Alaska were originally imported from Siberia, and belong to the domesticated European species. Native American species are properly called caribou.

The word reindeer is made up of the common word deer, preceded by the descriptive rein, which, according to Webster's New International Dictionary, is of Scandinavian origin. It bears no relation to the common word rein, which means the strap of a horse's bridle, but in relation to the Lappish word reino, which means "pasture." The word caribou, on the other hand, is Canadian French, of American Indian origin, and means a "pawer" or "scratcher," from the habit of the reindeer, particularly in searching for food under the snow.

Venison is the technical name of the meat of any animal of the deer kind. Originally the word meant the flesh of any edible beast of the chase or a game bird, but its use is now restricted to members of the deer family. In origin, the word goes back to the Latin "venatio," meaning hunting, the chase, game, etc. Although the word venison has often been used in describing a common food of the American Indians, it is related to no Indian language, having been in the English language for centuries.

The Indians, however, used to cut thin strips of buffalo meat or venison, dry them in the sun, pound them fine, mix them with melted fat, and pack the whole into sacks, to be used as emergency food. This preparation they called pemican, which is an Indian (Cree) word, meaning originally "grease" or "fat."

THE HOME TOWN BALL TEAM

Baseball has always been called the national sport. It is still today probably the most popular game, though millions of folks play golf and tennis, and those sports are running the famous old game of the diamond a hard race. They are all splendid games, and there is plenty of room on our broad acres for all three.

A good ball team furnishes splendid recreation for all types of people at a small cost. The crowds that pay anywhere from 25 and 50 cents up to witness games in big cities and smaller towns obtain an enormous amount of benefit, with the least possible exposure to harmful influences.

In the larger cities this problem mostly solves itself, as there are people enough to support fast teams. In the smaller cities and towns it is often more difficult, because of the lack of sufficient support to hire players who are speedy enough to win games.

The attitude of many ball fans is that they will support the team if it wins, or if it seems to have a good chance of winning, but any team which loses much more than half its games is jeered at, and many people will not pay admission fees to see it play. The fact that good ball is played does not satisfy them. Their home pride must be flattered by a team that can humiliate rivals. But as it is not possible for every town to have a winning team, the majority fail to have any.

There ought to be at least one team in every city and town. If it is honestly run, as most teams are, people interested in sport should back it up, and cheer it on, instead of jeering at its players from the grand stand when they fail after trying to do their best. Business men generally support such a team, since it brings people to their community and keeps people and money at home.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

THE BEST TITLE

A Russian woman recently renounced the titles of princess and countess to become a plain American citizen.

"It is good to be an American," she said. "The American people are so free and good-natured and kind. I love them and love America."

Too bad we are not all good-natured and kind. But the princess is partly right at least. The title of American citizen is the best in the way of titles that the world holds.

WHAT WE SEE

The Christian Science Monitor tells the story of the professor who asked his class to estimate the height of the flagstaff on one of the university buildings. All sorts of guesses were given. Some said six feet, some 10, some 20. The fact was, as the professor later pointed out, there was no flag at all on the building, and never had been.

Strange, you say? Not at all. That's what we are doing every day. We see what we wish to see. If we are against prohibition we are willing to swear that by all we can see it is a failure. If we are for prohibition we are willing to testify that by all we can see it is a success. To see things as they are requires a great gift of mind and spirit. It requires unusual honesty and poise.

SEEING NEW YORK—AND LIFE

A group of college girls arrived in New York the other day. But they weren't there to see the ordinary sights. They were there to visit hospitals, trade schools, home for girls, and other social service institutions. They came from eleven colleges and had been studying economics and social science. Well, it's lucky for a lot of us there are at least a few serious minded folks in the world who care about something up the rough spots in civilization. So many don't care. We owe a great debt of gratitude to those who do.

YOUR BY-PRODUCT

Your main output may be the business you own or the job you hold. But we all have a by-product. It is our spare time. We can make a wonderful intellectual profit out of our by-product. The Ford Motor Co. last year sold more than $19,000,000 worth of by-products. What we think of as the main job, our routine work, is a long way from being all there is in life.

WASHINGTON BUREAU

Who is the chairman of the federal farm board?
Alexander Legge, former president of the International Harvester company, holds this office. He was born on a Wisconsin farm 63 years ago. He is a personal friend of President Hoover and a former member of the war industries board. His term of one year expires in June.

Water Supplies

What is the longest distance that water is piped to any American city?

The aqueduct which supplies water for the city of Los Angeles is 205 miles in length.

Women Legislators

Are women serving in all the state legislatures now?

There were no women serving in the 1929 legislatures of the following states: Alabama, Delaware, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, North Carolina, South Dakota and Tennessee.

Removed From Office

Who was the governor and of what state was the chief executive, who was impeached during 1929?

The Oklahoma senate suspended from office Governor Henry S. Johnston, after it had received five articles of impeachment voted by the house of representatives. On March 20, 1929, the governor, by a vote of 35 to 9, was adjudged to be incompetent and was removed.

Haiti

Will you give the population of Haiti, the capital city and its population, and the principal exports of the island?

The population, as estimated by La Chambre de Commerce d'Haiti, Port-au-Prince, in 1927, was 2,500,000, of which 125,000 reside in the capital city of Port-au-Prince. The principal products of the island are coffee, cacao, logwood, hides and skins, sugar, lignum-vitae, cotton, orange peel, mahogany and honey.

Tell me something about the Acadia National park.

This was the first national park in the East, having an area of 15 square miles on Mount Desert Island. Me and the adjoining mainland. It includes a group of low granite mountains abutting the sea, the only prominent elevation along the entire Atlantic coast of the United States. Formerly known as the LaPayette National park, early in 1929, congress changed its name to Acadia, as this latter word is of native origin, coming from an Indian word apparently describing the region. Early fishermen and traders visiting the area, before recorded explorations of the English and French on their return to Europe, referred to it as Acadia, the name later used by Longfellow.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK. — A local department store is displaying a waterproof watch in a golden bowl in its window. At night, a spotlight plays on the watch and the fish swimming around it. A female "of the species" complained to the local S. P. C. A. that the electric light was injuring the eyesight of the fish.

She is probably the same little cutie who playfully puts carpet tacks in her husband's slippers and joggles his elbow in kittenish abandonment when he is shaving.

LOOK OUT, LITTLE ANGEL

In my own bouquet of memories it seems only yesterday that Rheba Crawford in true uniform and red-ribboned straw bonnet was beating a tambourine on a white light corner of Herald Square. The Salvation Army lassie's prettiness, as, night after night, she begged sinners to come to Glory, earned her the title of "The Angel of Broadway."

I do not know how many sinners she saved, but I do know she won a lot of admirers, who attended her corner meetings like a flock of stage door Johnnies. She married a wealthy Florida man, and next we see her in the roto sections and newsreels dogging it with the Palm Beach crowd. Then followed a divorce and temporary oblivion.

Now she is back on Broadway—but not with a tambourine. She is negotiating to make a motion picture and soon leaves for the Cinema Capital.

Look out little angel—Hollywood has a habit of singeing one's wings.

HORSES, HORSES, HORSES!

For the first time in years a man was recently arrested for speeding his horse in Central Park. And that led us to make a little investigation. We found that most any nice Spring, Fall or Winter day, there are more than 1,000 horses on the park's bridge path. Our informant also told us that New Yorkers pay $3,000 daily to ride in the old park. Average 8 hours a day, or $24,000 for 24 hours.

Between 15 and 20 riding academies and stables depend for a living on Central Park. There is an average of 50 horses to every stable, and the cost for riding ranges from $2 to $4 an hour. In addition to the regular period, there is also midnight riding. Giddap, Pegasus.

ANOTHER "BIG SHOT" IN THE FIELD OF AVIATION

STATE APPROACHING SOCIALISM IS COUNTRY'S PRESENT TREND, PROGRESSIVE SENATOR DECLARES

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Republicans or Democrats can hardly be told apart any longer, except as "ins" and "outs," or, in spots, vice versa.

Elections hinge on personalities; not issues.

Folk divide into plenty of groups, to be sure, but party names have ceased to describe them.

Six years ago the late Senator Robert M. La Follette tried to bring a new party, with real principles. He even ran for president on his ticket. He expected to be beaten, but he did hope his seedling party would grow into something. Instead, as a separate party, it expired immediately.

Senator La Follette died soon afterward, but his running mate Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Butte (Mont.), is still here. A few days ago I asked Senator Wheeler whether he believes the chances would be any better now to launch a major political movement, representative of more than a mere desire for offices and emoluments, than in 1924, when he was a candidate for vice president. "The last half dozen years' tendency has been decidedly in the direction of disintegration."

"For one thing," continued the senator, "in a sense, the two big parties of today are in process of changing places. Since 1924 business consolidation has made immense progress. That was the period of the merging of large scale industrial units. The concentration of smaller enterprises was but just beginning. At present we see it nearing completion in chains of retail stores, the linking of country banks, the unification of local utilities."

"All this implies the rapid growth of monopoly."

"Monopoly, as it perfects itself, is sure to become oppressive—unless strictly regulated."

"Just as surely, regulation will be resisted. If resistance is overcome, then the monopolistic policy will be to nullify the regulations, by gaining control of the regulative machinery."

"A clean-cut case of human rights versus property rights will develop automatically."

"The Democratic party traditionally is on the side of human rights; equally traditionally the Republican party is on the side of property rights."

"But the Democratic party is the states' rights party; the Republican party is the party of centralized government."

"However, mere statewide regulation of our increasingly formidable network of interstate corporations cannot possibly prove effective. Already we find old-time states' rights Democrats, driven by the logic of the situation, more and more forced to adopt centralization principles. Correspondingly we find the 'ancestral' stand-pat Republicans proclaiming states' rights doctrines—in defense of monopoly."

"Much as I hate bureaucracy, as exemplified in Washington, the Democratic party in Italy must turn in that direction to meet the needs of the future."

"But can they?"

"Before they can align themselves against one another on the impending economic issue, each must first settle, within itself, its prohibition."

problem. That will not wait. If not more important, at least it is more urgent than the other.

"In 1932 the northern Democrats unquestionably will be strong enough to include a wet plank in the party platform—and they certainly will include it."

"Assuming that that splits the party, what follows? A Republican walkover?"

"My impression is that the Republican party is about as badly divided as the Democratic on the wet-and-dry issue. With an unequivocally wet Democratic ticket in the field, how heavy would the Republican desertions be to the northern Democratic wet standard?"

"I admit I can't answer that question."

"I think the results might be the complete disorganization of both parties."

"In such an event—admitting, for the sake of argument, the prohibition issue's settlement in the 1932 election—there would be nothing to prevent an immediate realignment on the economic problem."

"But if prohibition remains unsettled?"

"Until that is settled nothing else can be settled. That is evident."

"I have been a dry because I believe prohibition would benefit the workingman."

A few employers may have favored it on the ground that it would enable them to get more work out of men, but the really intelligently selfish among them, those opposed it, feel ing sure it would make their workers more independent; less subservient and manageable. It proved so.

"Today the same employers who originally fought the Eighteenth amendment—plus others, who have been converted—want repeal or modification. Or perhaps they prefer to keep the issue alive, as at present, to stave off concentration on economic issues."

"At any rate, while prohibition continues to obstruct an economic realignment, regulation of the power of monopoly is crippled."

"The best big business brains will not, indeed, oppose reasonable regulation, for they realize the danger, to big business itself, of unregulated monopoly. But the best brains are in a minority."

"Controlled, the existing system can escape its peril."

"Permitted to run its own course and over-reach itself, the next thing we shall hear is the cry of 'Public ownership!'"

"This country has no liking for anything with the socialist label—but something very like socialism, by whatever name we call it, is the destination we are heading for under the guidance of the very interests least willing to land us there."

This menu was planned for two people. Lemon or pineapple pie or lighter desserts of the same materials, may be preferred with a fish dinner to the bread pudding in the dinner menu. However, that would necessitate a change in salad.

Today's Recipes
Baked Haddock—One and one-half pound haddock fillet, one-half green pepper, one cup celery, two tablespoons butter, salt. Cook slowly in butter the finely cut green pepper. Cut celery in half-inch pieces, boil in three-fourths of a cup of water fifteen minutes. Pour shallow baking dish. Put in fish. Pour cooked pepper and butter and celery with water in which it cooked, over fish. Bake an hour in medium oven; baste. Add more water if it becomes dry.

Sauce for Spinach—Three tablespoons butter, yolks two eggs, two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons water, one-eighth teaspoon salt, dash paprika. It will require but five minutes to make this sauce. Do it as you take up the dinner. Set a round bottom crockery bowl in the top of the tea kettle. Have kettle boiling slowly. Put butter, lemon juice and water in bowl. As soon as butter is melted put in egg yolks and stir until it begins to thicken. Lift bowl from top of tea kettle and continue stirring. The heat in the bowl will finish the cooking. Add salt and paprika and pour over cooked salted spinach.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Reducing Tablets
"Dear Doctor: Are tablets harmful for reducing weight? I have heard that they contain tapeworms. Is this true? I have tried your method of reducing, and think it is just about the surest way of losing that hateful fat. My family is opposed to my dieting, for they think that fat is inherited. I eat very little at my meals. My greatest fault is eating between meals. I am 5 feet 1 inch tall, and weigh 123 pounds."

No, these tablets do not contain tapeworm embryos. D. (There was an actual case recorded by the New York health department of an obesity cure which did consist of capsules containing the embryos of tapeworm, but that received so much publicity that I don't believe it will ever be tried again.) But the tablets you name do contain thyroid, which is a very powerful drug, and if taken should be supervised by a physician. Otherwise it is very dangerous.

Some cases of obesity seem to do a little better with small doses of thyroid, but even then there must be a reducing diet, and I don't really believe that it is necessary in any case, even though the thyroid gland is underactive. Your dietetic sin, dear girl, is eating between meals, and that is a habit you can overcome—you will be surprised how soon! Just stop one day! If you are hungry when you come from school, allow yourself 100 C. of something—a good-sized apple or orange or pear, or medium-sized banana—and then take nothing else but water until your evening meal.

You didn't say what your age is, but if you are 16 years old, for your height of 5 feet 1 inch—the average weight is about 112, so you are not so very much overweight; unless you look fat, you may not be overweight at all, for we consider that it is better during growth to be slightly over the average weights, than under.

No one need make his dieting conspicuous, simply by taking small servings, and not repeating, and cutting out excess bread and butter and sweets, it needn't be observable at all.

You better send for our Petersizing pamphlet—if you are really frankly fat—as that has a foundation diet which you should adhere to pretty strictly. But reduce very slowly, as with your increase in height (even though you don't decrease in weight) you will look slimmer.

"Dear Doctor: I wonder if you can tell me why ordinary baking flour should affect me in this way? Every time I do any baking, or even if I'm near flour, I feel as though I had an awful cold in my nose; it runs and I sneeze constantly and can hardly breathe."

"MRS. M."

It is quite evident that you have developed a sensitization or idiosyncrasy to flour. You may have to stop baking. You have a sort of hay fever; flour affects you as certain pollens affect those suffering from that disease.

I suggest you go to a physician who specializes in the treatment of hay fever. He may be able to give you treatment that will make you immune to the flour.

For those who are interested, we have an article that takes up Colds, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Asthma, etc. See column rules.

Tomorrow: Sore Throat.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following:—mail charge to be covered or cost of printing and handling; for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Opening and reading the letters that come to my desk in a single day is like being on a train or street car and hearing the history of each one of the passengers.

Here is a pretty young girl who looks sad. It is not hard to guess that her trouble is that the young man she loves either does not properly appreciate her or else that they have quarreled.

That weary looking middle-aged woman is married a second time, and her husband's children are making her home unhappy and she doesn't know what to do.

The young girl with the two babies was married when she was 16, and her husband drinks, and when he does, he abuses her. She cannot leave him and support the youngsters herself, and how can she stand her life and bring up her babies right?

When there is the young man whose girl won't promise to "go steady," and who fears she's becoming interested in some one else, and the little girl whose parents won't let her have boy friends, and several boys and girls, older people, too, whose life is treating kindly or who have the kind of natures that blossom and spread sunshine in almost any circumstances.

There isn't room in the space allotted us for all the letters, but we'll try to answer as many as possible. We hope it has eased the burden of all of them that they have written, anyway. It often does help, just to confide in another who won't betray our secret.

L. M. D.: Isn't there some prospect of your husband's son and daughter marrying and leaving you in peace some time or other?

The daughter will undoubtedly when she is free again. You are in a delicate position. If you were their own mother, it would be different. Hold on to the home that you've worked so hard for, and try, in the kindest possible manner to get them to see what is right. Your husband should certainly see that you are fairly treated.

If things become impossible, sue for divorce or separate maintenance and put in a claim for your rightful share of the estate.

A. M. W.: Are you sure it would be wise to bring your husband's mother into your home, dear, under the circumstances? It is very sweet and good of you to be willing, but it might not be the happiest arrangement, and it even might not be altogether fair to you.

So much depends on her state of health and mentality. If she is capable of making a home for her daughters, it would be nice for them to take a small house or flat and let her keep house for them.

The only way to find out your husband's views on the subject is to ask him what he thinks, telling him how you feel about it and how willing you are to do what you can to make his mother happy.

It is his place to care for her, of course. If no other way can be found. But if her husband is not divorced he should contribute to her support.

PEGGY: No, Peggy, no man of that name has written me.

How To Achieve Beauty

By GLAYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

FOR a normal skin, or for a heavy skin, the use of ice or of cold water as an astringent is advisable, and oftentimes either one is that is necessary to keep the texture of the skin fine. The very sensitive skin, however, cannot stand either ice or cold water.

The result of the use of either on a thin, sensitive skin is fine lines, thousands of them, visible only under a very strong light, but present all the same, the beginnings of that extremely crepey type of skin that many older women acquire.

For your own satisfaction, after using ice or cold water, watch the results. Probably, after the first day, no lines will appear. But after a short time you will be able to see the tiny disfiguring lines.

Few women, with no open pore conditions on the face should use such treatment. It is necessary to find an astringent that contains enough oil to eradicate the lines, yet at the same time will close the pores. One of the best combination oil and astringent mixtures for refining the texture of the skin that is very sensitive is the old rose-water and glycerine solution that is almost universally employed for chapped hands. It should be used in the following manner.

Wash the face with warm water and soap. Dry thoroughly with a soft towel and apply the rosewater-glycerine mixture with the tips of the fingers. Don't use too much. If the skin doesn't absorb immediately all that you put on, and you see a bit of the mixture glistening on the face, dab it off. Don't rub it off.

Allow the rose-water and glycerine to remain on the face over night. In the morning remove with warm water and apply your regular powder base.

They Overlooked the Diamonds

THERE is a modern flippancy to the effect that "What you don't know won't hurt you." It is also a fallacy. For instance:

The farmers of Kimberley were a disgusted, disheartened lot. They said the soil was too rocky to earn them a living. Some of them left. Others died in poverty:

And all the time their children were playing with diamonds.

But the farmers didn't know. They thought the priceless gems were pebbles.

Don't be like those Kimberley farmers. Know!

Don't seek opportunity in some distant place and overlook the diamonds that are daily within your grasp. Know!

Advertising is a mine of opportunity. It tells of values you wouldn't know about if it were not there to guide you.

The secret of economical buying is information. The man or woman who is best informed is the one who buys to best advantage.

FRAMED

The experiment of playing baseball at night under the glare of artificial lights will be watched with interest by the major leagues, which never overlook any bet designed to stimulate gate receipts. The night baseball idea was tried for the first time last week at Des Moines, Ia., of the Western League, and is to be continued by Decatur, Ill., of the Three-Eye League.

Reports are that as far as actual playing is concerned little difficulty is experienced on that score. The batters in the Des Moines game were able to see the ball clearly as it came hurtling toward the plate, but the infielders were bothered slightly when it came to fielding ground balls.

It is safe to say the major leagues will not adopt the plan for some time to come as the idea is still in its infancy, but eventually all major league baseball games may be played at night, thereby tending to increase the attendance immeasurably.

Despite the fact the Cincinnati Reds have been hovering in or near last place in the National League ever since the season opened, President Weil can have no complaint to make about patronage of the Red home games. Attendance to date has exceeded the corresponding period in 1926 when the Reds were contenders for the pennant until the last few weeks of play. The Cincinnati team has done nothing to deserve such steady patronage but lately things have been looking up, what with these new dry bats, and the patience of the Red fans is being rewarded by more frequent victories. Who would have thought the light-hitting Reds would score eight, nine and eight runs respectively in three straight games and win a series from the proud New York Giants, two games to one.

When Long George Kelly took a swing at a ball, fouled it and injured himself the other day it certainly was a big break in favor of those Reds. For it gave Stripp a chance to play first base in his place. And the batting of Stripp has been like a letter from home. Not only has this player been hitting like a fiend but he has inspired other Red hitters to greater deeds at the plate and if he keeps up the good work Kelly may find himself warming the bench for the remainder of the current season.

SPRING VALLEY AND CEDARVILLE TEAMS WILL DECIDE TITLE

Spring Valley and Cedarville teams will meet in a nine-inning game on the Cedarville College diamond Wednesday afternoon with the Class B high school baseball title in Greene County at stake. The game will be called at 4 o'clock.

Cedarville won the right to participate in the finals by defeating Bellbrook in the preliminary round of the county elimination series and then winning by forfeit over Jamestown in the semi-finals Monday afternoon.

The Cedarville-Jamestown game was staged on the neutral Bowersville diamond but rain in the fifth inning prevented completion of the scheduled seven-inning contest. Cedarville was leading at the time by the lop-sided margin of 26 to 4 and it was agreed Tuesday that although the semi-final game was not completed, the Cedarville quintet was vastly superior and that the contest would not be replayed.

Jamestown graciously conceded the victory by forfeit and the most harmonious feelings existed at a conference between officials of the two schools which ended in the decision to forfeit the game to Cedarville.

Spring Valley's unbeaten team won its way into the county finals with an easy 14 to 3 victory over Caesar Creek in a seven-inning game on the Caesar diamond Monday afternoon.

Coach Lane's boys rapped out seventeen hits off Bales, Caesar pitcher, and his successor on the mound, while Smith, star Spring Valley hurler, limited the opposition to four hits and fanned nine batters. Score by innings of the Spring Valley-Caesar game:

Xenia Central High School's tennis and golf teams will participate in the Miami Valley League golf and tennis tournament to be held Saturday at the Community Club in Dayton and there is a possibility the local school may have representatives in some of the events in the annual league track and field meet to be staged at Greenville on the following Saturday. Central High has no track team, however.

DOWNTOWNERS BEAT GRAHAMS IN SOFTBALL LEAGUE BATTLE

In the first game of the Xenia softball season that has gone the regulation nine innings, the Downtown Country Club team, defending city champions, recorded its first victory of the current campaign, defeating the Graham Paints by a score of 6 to 3 in a fast tilt Monday night at Cox Athletic Field.

The two teams scored almost as many runs as they made hits as the hitherto unbeaten Graham nine was limited to four blows and the Downtowners accumulated only six safeties.

The 1929 champs drew first blood in the opening inning when Bob Finlay, first batter, knocked a home run. Three more runs were added in the third as a result of four errors and a double by Huston. The Downtowners were held hitless and runless in the following four rounds but sewed up the contest in the eighth on singles by Huston and Clemans, a fielder's choice and a double by Frame.

PLAY TUESDAY

The crack University of Dayton baseball team, considered one of the most powerful nines in the state by virtue of victories over Ohio Wesleyan and Cincinnati, will visit Yellow Springs Tuesday afternoon for a return game with Antioch College, playing the Division "A" team. Several weeks ago the Flyers easily defeated Antioch's Division "B" nine.

OPEN NOOKS TRIAL

The May petit jury convened in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning for the trial of Alva Nooks, colored, on a petit larceny charge growing out of the alleged theft of eight bushels of corn valued at $8 from Andrews and Dennehy June 15, 1929. The affidavit was originally filed by William Dennehy. Nooks was indicted by the grand jury last January but because of illness of the prosecuting witness the Negro was never brought to trial.

N. Y. STOCK NOON TREND

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service
Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Higher prices were quoted at the beginning of trading today for most of the active industrial utility stocks, but there was no furious rush to buy stocks as in some of the recent sessions following a sharp break. As a group the utilities made the best showing, with representative stocks like American Waterworks, Columbia Gas and Consolidated Gas up 1 to 4 1/2 points.

Stock sales in the first half hour totaled only 696,800 shares, or less than half of the turnover of the same period yesterday. Though the pressure of liquidation and short selling was not as great as in the previous session, outside demand for stocks tapered off, as the result of which many of the active shares lost the bulk of their overnight gains.

Renewed selling of the coppers was the market's response to last night's announcement of a cut in the red metal to 13 cents a pound, with prospects of a further cut to 12 cents or less not far off. Anaconda dropped once more to a new low, at 54, down 1%, and Kennecott lost a point.

MALE MOVIE STARS LIKE CONTRASTING FEMININE TYPES

HOLLYWOOD, May 6.—Four film notables, male, were discussing — well, what do you suppose they were discussing? Right the first time. Women.

The four, Bill Boyd, Robert Armstrong, Eddie Quillan, and Alan Hale, swapped views of what type woman was best to marry. Bill Boyd, as might be expected, said he preferred them quiet and domestic, a fact that may account for the withdrawal of his wife, Elinor Fair, from a screen career following her marriage.

"Sweet is what I mean," said Bill. "I like a sweet girl. Sure, I admire beauty. But if you'll look around, I think you'll find that most girls who are genuinely sweet are pretty easy on the eyes. It's something inside that seems to radiate and glow," he rhapsodized. "And boy, it does more to make a woman beautiful than an army of beauty doctors. I like a girl who is home-loving, because I am that way myself. I think a quiet woman is soothing."

This was too much for Armstrong.

"I like a modern lively, outdoor girl," he burst in. "One who can swim, dance, golf, play tennis, drive, ride horseback and airplanes. I don't say I want a girl to be big and masculine-looking. Most of the athletic girls are beautiful in a bronzed, wholesome fashion. Girls of that type are fun to be with. They are alert mentally, and are interesting to talk with. And they can give you companionship. You can't have for a close companion a girl who can't participate with you in your outdoor life."

Armstrong was supported by young Eddie Quillan.

"Yep, me too," expounded Eddie. "I want a nifty looker and a good hooper."

"I like a mamma who can shake a hot pair of pedal extremities when that saxophone begins to moan," he further apostrophized. "If I do say it, I can take the doggies for a mean walk myself, and I like a gal who can treat the floor wax just as carelessly."

Generally, Eddie likes the girls who are "large on looks and small on size."

Brawny Alan Hale thought it over, from his height of six feet two inches, and then observed:

"I admire daintiness."

"I suppose it is according to the law which says opposites attract, but I want a woman to be dainty. Almost any girl can be beautiful if she grooms herself carefully. I like a woman who takes good care of her hair, her complexion, who keeps her nails beautifully manicured. I don't think it is as necessary for a woman to be perfect in face as in figure as it is for her to be fastidious."

"And anyway, women who are careful about such things are usually intelligent, and that is stimulating to a man."

Director Monte Brice, in an interview the other day, expressed his view of brilliant modern girls. He says they should learn to hide their intellectual abilities, for social success.

"If the brilliant girl is wise, she will use the mental side of her personality during working hours. When she is not working, she should be as charming and feminine as possible. She should be prompt to admire everything in her escort, if she would attract him. Felicitate him on his suit, on his wit, his gentleness and appreciative, if you want to make a hit with men."

"Keeping up with the Jones' is a blamed good hunch;— if the Jones are going where YOU want to go," says Kany the Tailor.

Money invested in a home is not for this month or this year, but for all the years that you and yours are to call the new house "home." Therefore the necessity of selecting an exterior and a floor plan that will fit the family needs and afford all that is desired in comfort, convenience, beauty and durability.

If four rooms are desired it would be hard to conceive of a more attractive small home than the one herewith shown.

This house has all that a small home should have, including a lot of personality.

Some will call this a cottage type home, while others will classify it as a bungalow. Cottage or bungalow, whichever you prefer, it can be built with the assurance that the money it represents is obtaining full value.

The living room is large and has windows on two sides. There is a fireplace in the living room which will add the desired touch of cozy warmth and genial hospitality.

The dining room is a little bit smaller than the living room, as will be seen by referring to the floor plan. There is a china case built in one corner, adding a very modern touch.

The kitchen, the workshop of the home, is full of time and labor-saving conveniences, and it is of good size—9 ft. 6 in. by 10 ft. 2 in. Modern-day kitchens are not large, and this kitchen provides plenty of work space for the small family.

The bedroom is 12x13 feet and has windows on two sides. If desired a built-in tray case and linen closet can be utilized in this room, as called for by the floor plan.

The house is very attractive when the exterior is of siding, as illustrated. However, it could be of brick veneer or even have a shingled exterior and still be attractive. Wide siding, painted white, and dark shutters, with plenty of trellis work and shrubbery, add a lot to the appearance of this home.

It is of course, a home which will appeal to the small family. It might be termed a "newlyweds" house. It can be built so that additional rooms may be added later.

As for the above home, it could very easily be made the beauty spot of the street or avenue upon which it is built.

Floors and woodwork that gleam softly with a mellow lustre, that stay free from scuffs and mars, are achieved by applying that protective armor of beauty—

SUPER-AUTOMATIC

KELVINATOR

Iso-Thermic Tubes for Automatic Fast Freezing

Here is a feature that will appeal to every user of electric refrigeration—a special Kelvinator compartment that gives extra-fast freezing, automatically. Note the spiral coil of Iso-Thermic Tubes, indicated by arrows. This is, in effect, a Cold Plate, in which intense cold is concentrated. Ice cubes and desserts are frozen in half the usual time. Yet food compartments are not affected. A feature exclusive to Kelvinator and standard equipment on all 1930 Kelvinator models.

Now you may turn over the entire problem of healthful food preservation in your home, to an electric servant—the new Super-Automatic Kelvinator. Without care or worry on your part, this marvelous new development of Kelvinator engineering will efficiently supervise every task for which modern electric refrigeration was designed.

Iso-Thermic Tubes, a new Kelvinator discovery, make possible the freezing of ice cubes and delicious desserts in an amazingly brief period.

Yet food compartments are always between 40 and 50 degrees, remaining unaffected by the lower temperature in ice chamber. No possible danger of food freezing. And the Kelvinator Cold-Keeper cuts down operating periods fully one-third.

Larger size Kelvinators have a separate compartment where perishable foods may be kept indefinitely. Renders a service similar to that of big cold storage plants. Invaluable for large homes, country estates and clubs.

Before reaching any decision on a new electric refrigerator, see the new Super-Automatic Kelvinators at our show-rooms. Learn how easily you may own a new Kelvinator on easy payments, through the convenient Kelvinator Re-DisCo monthly budget plan.

WOMEN BARRED FROM CHURCH MINISTRY

Women will not be permitted to become ordained ministers in the Presbyterian Church.

The question, submitted to the church at large through the medium of the individual Presbyteries, recently, was defeated according to an announcement of the Presbyterian General Assembly.

Returns received by the General Assembly indicate that 101 Presbyteries voted for the proposal and 148 voted against it, while it would require a majority of 147 of the 249 Presbyteries to adopt the plan.

The result of the vote on the overture permitting women to become elders in the church is still

In doubt, the vote so far being 142 Presbyteries for the measure and 108 against. Both proposals were favored by the Dayton Presbytery at its meeting at the First Presbyterian Church here April 21 and 22.

FIGHT TO CONTROL WISCONSIN

Outcome of the ouster suit brought against Governor Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin, charging violation of the contempt practices act, is linked with the future of the Progressive movement and the sons of the late Robert M. LaFollette. If young Philip LaFollette succeeds in wresting the Republican nomination from Kohler this autumn, his influence in the state will be added to that of his brother, Robert M., Jr., who succeeded his father in the senate. On the other hand, Philip LaFollette's defeat and failure of the ouster would pave the way for Kohler to run for the senate in 1932, in opposition to Senator James J. Blaine, a Progressive. The LaFollettes, Robert, left, and Philip, right, are at top; Blaine, lower left, and Kohler, right.

COURT OF APPEALS REMANDS CASE FOR SECOND TRIAL HERE

Reversing the lower court's judgment for the defendant, the second district court of appeals has remanded for re-trial in Common Pleas Court the $5,000 damage suit filed by M. D. Flack, farmer, against The Ohio Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., based on alleged permanent injuries suffered by Flack the night of October 23, 1926, when he accidentally fell into a telegraph pole hole on the Xenia-Cedarville Pike, claimed to have been left unguarded by company employees who were constructing poles along the road.

Flack was returning home from a neighbor's house and failed to notice the hole, he claimed. Declaring the hole was five or six feet in depth, the farmer charged he stepped in it accidentally, sustaining a rib and injuring his side.

Flack originally instituted suit in the court of R. O. Consey, former Xenia Twp. justice of the peace, for $250 damages. Judgment in favor of Flack was rendered by default. The case was appealed and came to trial in Common Pleas Court. During the trial the plaintiff dismissed the action and then filed a new suit for $5,000 damages.

The original action in the magistrate's court was against a defendant designated as The Postal Telegraph Co., but summons was issued and service made upon Eleanor A. Williams, who at that time was the Xenia agent for The Ohio Postal Telegraph-Cable Co.

The judgment was given for the plaintiff after motion was made by defense attorneys seeking dismissal "for the reason there is no such company as The Ohio Postal Telegraph Co.," named defendant in the action.

The case came on to trial on appeal in Common Pleas Court and at the conclusion of the plaintiff's testimony counsel for the Ohio Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. moved for a directed verdict on the ground the corporate capacity of the defendant had not been shown.

When the court ruled that the case would be continued to give the plaintiff time to obtain desired proof of corporate capacity, the plaintiff thereupon dismissed the suit over the exception of the defendant.

It was claimed by defense attorneys that the plaintiff could not dismiss his action in Common Pleas Court without prejudice, inasmuch as he had a judgment in the magistrate's court.

Admitting that the separate identity of the respective companies was as distinct as John Jones and Thomas Smith, the appellate court held that the attempt was made at all times by defense attorneys to assert a defense without sustaining the relationship of a party to the suit. The defendant was at no time in status to be made to respond to any judgment which might be rendered against it, the appeals court held.

It cannot, therefore, avail itself of the benefit of the action of the court wherein it could not have been affected, in the judgment of the appeals court. In remanding the case for a new trial, the higher court denied a defense motion to dismiss the petition in error filed by Flack's counsel.

SEVEN TRUE BILLS RETURNED BY GRAND JURY HERE MONDAY

Seven true bills, involving at least eight persons, and including one secret indictment, were reported by the May grand jury following a one-day session in Common Pleas Court Monday. Eight criminal cases were investigated, one was ignored and twelve witnesses were examined.

Roy Elcker, Dayton, who with his brother, Kenneth, were recently returned to Xenia following their arrest on suspicion in Iowa City, Ia., was indicted for highway robbery in connection with an assault made upon James Masterpois, Springfield, December 6, 1928. Masterpois was robbed of $830 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $450 by alleged hi-jackers who attacked him on the Springfield Pike near Yellow Springs.

James Burden was indicted for theft of an auto belonging to Charles King and valued at $200 and was also named with William E. Terrell in a joint indictment which charges them with having operated an auto belonging to Carl Anderson without the owner's consent April 30, 1929.

An indictment charging that he gave Samuel Engelman, Xenia clothing merchant, a check for $10 last November 26 without sufficient funds in The Winters National Bank and Trust Co., Dayton, was returned against Nathaniel Bayless, Dayton.

George C. Coleman was indicted for driving an auto belonging to Wade Allen without the owner's consent last April 1 and Henry Crawford was named in an indictment accusing him of receiving stolen property last April 16. The property alleged to have been stolen from P. W. Hughes, Dayton Ave., was a half inch electric drill valued at $40.

After making the customary examination of the County Jail, the grand jury made the customary recommendation that all cell doors be equipped with locks and that more ventilation be provided in the jail proper and in the women's department. Sheriff Ohmer Tate was commended in the report for the fine condition in which the jail was found when it was visited.

J. B. Bice acted as foreman of the grand jury. The original panel was depleted and it was found necessary to obtain five additional grand jurors.

Arraignment of those indicted by the grand jury is expected to take place within the next three days.

SALE OF STORE HERE ENDS LONG CAREER OF MERCHANT FOR CHARLES A. KELBLE

A career of forty-two years in the retail business in Xenia was terminated recently when Charles A. Kelble, veteran local merchant, closed a deal by which he sold his clothing and shoe store on W. Main St., to F. W. Uhlman, Bowling Green, O.

Mr. Kelble started in business in Xenia August 17, 1887 and although he had occupied four different locations since that time, he had always been in business on W. Main St., between Detroit and King Sts.

Mr. Kelble's first store was in a small room in a frame building where the building occupied by the Famous Auto Supply Co., is now located. Later he moved his business to the building now used by the Jacob Hyman fruit market at Main and King Sts.

Still later it was moved across the street to the building occupied by the John A. North plumbing shop and sixteen years ago it was moved to the location at 17-19 W. Main St., the lease for which has been taken over by the new owner.

Mr. Kelble was nineteen years of age when he started in business and gradually the business expanded until it became one of the largest stores of its kind in Greene County.

In recent years Mr. Kelble turned his attention to civic affairs and has been actively interested in all municipal betterment projects. He has backed many beautification projects and has been a prime mover in the development of Shawnee Park.

Mr. Kelble was at one time president of the Chamber of Commerce, is a charter member of the Kiwanis Club, a member of the Xenia Retail Merchants' Association, served for several years as a member of City Commission after being appointed to fill a vacancy and is always pleased to align himself with boosters of civic affairs. He is also one of the charter members of the Xenia Country Club.

The veteran Xenia merchant, in announcing the disposal of his retail store, discloses that he has no plans for the immediate future except to enjoy a much needed rest for a time. Reports that he is planning to leave Xenia are unfounded, he declares.

CHARLES A. KELBLE

Russell Stephens, who is now in the employ of the Uhlman store, had been associated with Mr. Kelble in the business as a clerk for the last twenty-seven years. D. L. Crawford, also a clerk in the store, had been in Mr. Kelble's employ for the last seven years.

"A friend told me about Konjola and insisted that I try it. I had lost all faith in medicines but he was so insistent that I made up my mind to give Konjola a chance. The results exceeded my expectations, for today my stomach is performing as it should and constipation has been thoroughly relieved. I do not wonder that Konjola has more than a million friends. I can easily understand why Konjola is the most talked of medicine in America."

Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

WILSON'S BOYHOOD HOME IS RESTORED

and BOYHOOD HOME.

By Central Press

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 5.—Woodrow Wilson's boyhood home, located in this city, in which he spent four years of the formative period of his youth, now belongs to posterity.

Restoration work on the residence is practically completed. It now appears as it did when the period between his thirteenth and seventeenth years.

A benevolent State has purchased the historic spot for permanent preservation as a link in the plan to keep alive the memory of the world leader whose words swayed continents a decade ago.

Built by Father

This boyhood home of Wilson was built by his father, Dr. Joseph R. Wilson, and designed by his mother, Ellen Axton Wilson, in 1871. The property comprises about one acre, and was purchased by Dr. Wilson in 1870, a year before the residence was erected.

It is a modest, two-story house, painted entirely white, with huge magnolia trees flanking each side of the yard. It is the only home Dr. Wilson ever owned.

While living here, Dr. Wilson was a professor in Columbia Theological Seminary, in which capacity he served until 1876, when the family moved to Wilmington, N. C., where the elder Wilson became pastor of a church in that city.

In the spring of 1929 a committee of Columbia citizens purchased the Wilson property on which to erect an auditorium, and sold the house to a wrecker for $1,000.

The American Legion post was indignant at the proposed desecration of the place and promptly raised $1,000 and bought the home back from the wrecker just in time to prevent its destruction.

State Steps In
The legislature then appropriated $17,500, to be derived from public subscription, for the purchase of the property.

GLIDER CLUB GROUP WILL MEET TUESDAY EVENING IN XENIA

D. N. Fischer, secretary and treasurer of the Dayton Glider Club and L. P. Moore, representing the Waco Aircraft Co., Troy, who is attempting to organize a similar club here, will address a meeting of glider enthusiasts at 27 Green St., Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, it is announced.

Roy Hanes, pilot and instructor who conducted the Xenia Flying School here last winter, and who will be instructor for the club when it is formed, will also be present. Interest in projecting the club here is in line with a wave of enthusiasm for glider flying spurred by the recent experiments with gliders by Colonel Lindbergh, Captain Frank Hawks and other noted flyers.

The glider is advanced by flyers as the easiest, safest and most satisfactory manner of learning to fly a plane. The club will be equipped with a Waco glider and the individual fee paid by each member for instruction will help cover the cost of the glider. The club is open to anyone more than fifteen years of age.

FIRE DAMAGES ROOF AT YELLOW SPRINGS

Damage estimated by the village fire department at $150 was caused by fire which burned away a portion of the roof at the residence of Dr. C. S. Adams, a professor of chemistry at Antioch College, located on Whiteman St., in Yellow Springs, early Monday afternoon.

Origin of the blaze was undetermined. Mrs. Adams was asleep in the house when a neighbor, who noticed flames shooting through the roof, called her to the door and told her that the house was ablaze. Mrs. Adams summoned the village fire department, which soon had the fire extinguished.

But Dixie! Her best friend—and a wife and mother. The girl she had known all her life. Light-hearted and sometimes empty-headed. But, with sound, hard common sense that had overtopped it all even in her most nonsensical moments.

She had seemed to love her baby so. But it must be that her life on the stage had been so exciting and full of good times and rich men that she had desired it all so badly again she had broken down all her traditions. Bang hadn't enough money to hold her.

Elanda remembered all the good times they had had. The thousand and one little tendernesses Dixie had shown her—and found it almost impossible to believe she were not dreaming. Suddenly the tears began to rain down her cheeks.

She was remembering all the kind things—the sweet memories of her girlhood chum, and forgetting that she had shattered it all with her telephone call to Greg Du Pont.

What would she say if she knew Elanda had heard it? Elanda marvelled that she had been able to keep from screaming out at her. That she had managed to get out without her hearing her.

A small man with an artistic hair cut and a "fingie" tie came up and sat down beside Elanda. She observed him suddenly—and that he was getting ready to speak to her. She got up, therefore, and walked on.

She walked around the park and up Fifth Avenue—and on and on. It seemed to her that she had walked hours before she discovered that she was shivering in the cold breeze and it had gotten dark.

Was it all a dream? A dreadful, unbelievable nightmare? Or had she lost her reason? Suddenly she felt she must assure herself that she had heard correctly.

She would call Greg. She would tell him they were invited away for the week end—and she would see whether he would go. Perhaps he would break a date with Dixie to go with her. Perhaps he would rather be with her, after all.

A sudden light flashed upon Elanda. Maybe perhaps she could save Dixie from this first big step in the breaking up of her home. If Greg said he would go with her, she could tell Dixie, and Dixie would feel herself slighted and she might get angry with Greg and not see him any more. Childishly she reasoned.

Elanda reached into her bag and took out a nickel. She walked two more blocks to a phone booth. There might be a chance that Greg was entertaining at his apartment.

With a mighty effort she forced herself to drop the nickel into the slot and give his number. With a still greater effort she forced life into her voice when a servant answered the telephone.

"Miss Lee calling Mr. Du Pont." She was happy he had his own bachelor apartment and that she did not have to talk to his mother. In a moment he was on the wire.

"Greg," she lied then—leaning

Elanda's first impulse was to rush out to the kitchen—and she didn't know what she wanted to do. She had never had murder in her heart. But what she felt was akin to it.

Dixie! Pretending to be her friend and going out with her fiancé. Leaving her husband and baby. And Dixie had planned to go away with his crowd for the week end and lie to them all.

Then Elanda knew she could not face Dixie—then. She got up stealthily and wiped her eyes and powdered her nose and tiptoed weakly across the living room floor. She opened the door, softly—holding her breath in fear that Dixie would hear her.

A cool breeze was blowing. She wore no hat and it felt deliciously refreshing against her hot head and burning cheeks. Think—think. She must think.

She walked to Washington Square Park and sat down heavily on a bench. It was about the only bench empty in the park. All around her were foreign men and women from the village and the East Side, sitting, watching their dirty children play in the cool evening breeze.

It seemed strange to see them there. Dotted the Square were tall apartments that rented for fortunes. A queer mixture of squalor and wealth—Greenwich Village.

It was Thursday. And Friday night—tomorrow night—she would have to go to the studio and sing. It seemed impossible. It was the following day that Dixie planned to go away for the week end with Greg.

How could she go on and be herself—and smile and try to act as though nothing had occurred? Her world had fallen around her in little pieces. It wasn't so much the loss of Greg. That, strangely, she thought, was rather a relief.

It was humiliating to know she would have to suffer through the questions that might be asked her—and to endure the lifting of eyebrows and the whispered comment of a curious world.

But she told herself truthfully, she never had loved Greg. She never had trusted him. She was not surprised to find that his evenings were passed with other women. Certainly, all those evenings he had neglected to even call her he had not been sitting at home playing solitaire. Not Greg Du Pont.

Why had he asked her to marry him? She reasoned that out, too. She knew—she could tell from his violent love making, that she was a physical attraction. Her coolness had disappointed him. That was why he had been staying away from her. She was not someone to be kind to and cherish as his future wife. He was not pleased that she was a good woman. It had bored him. As Zinnie Conroy had bored him with her sheer decency.

But Dixie! Her best friend—and a wife and mother. The girl she had known all her life. Light-hearted and sometimes empty-headed. But, with sound, hard common sense that had overtopped it all even in her most nonsensical moments.

She had seemed to love her baby so. But it must be that her life on the stage had been so exciting and full of good times and rich men that she had desired it all so badly again she had broken down all her traditions. Bang hadn't enough money to hold her.

"Miss Lee calling Mr. Du Pont." She was happy he had his own bachelor apartment and that she did not have to talk to his mother. In a moment he was on the wire.

"Greg," she lied then—leaning again the phone box to keep from falling. "I just had a phone call from an old friend of mine and she wants us to come to her country place for the week end. Wouldn't it be fun?"

"I'm sorry, sweetheart," he told her glibly in his merry, devil-may-care voice, "but I've had a date to go on a back party with Bid Cameron and a bunch of the boys to Bid's lake hut for three weeks. Can we make it some other time?"

She managed to end the conversation and hung up the receiver wearily.

That plan would not work. He would rather go with Dixie! Dixie! She must prevent her going some way—at any cost. But how? How could she do it without letting her know?

Why, poor little Dixie was just a child herself. Elanda couldn't let her ruin her happiness like that. Soon that was the only thought that kept hammering through her tortured brain. She must save Dixie—and Bang and Andrea.

She, herself, didn't matter.

The Theater

Reversing her English after thirteen years in the Hollywood training camp, Lillian Gish, the former Springfield girl, has made her debut as a star on the legitimate stage at the Cort Theater in New York in "Uncle Vanya," Chekhov's Russian comedy.

It was in 1913 that the fair Lillian played a child role in David Belasco's "A Good Little Devil" with Mary Pickford. Broadway, which has given so many performers to Hollywood, got back an actress. Her performance is rated as a tribute to the effect of screen technique on the art of acting.

Mr. Frank McCurran, prominent contractor, is a candidate for central committeeman from Precinct B of the first ward.

In two weeks the seniors of the high school will present the "College Widow" at the Opera House.

The fight for control of the Republican central committee will be one of the spectacular contests of the coming primary election.

"Storm" and "Broken Blossoms" is quite taken with her stage success and is not to be lured back to Hollywood right away. Following a European holiday later in the summer, she expects to play Desdemona in "Othello." Osgood Perkins, now the doctor of "Uncle Vanya," will be laxed but the Moor himself has not been cast.

They say Miss Gish is not the kind of Helena that Chekhov had in mind. But she is described as an "exquisitely ethereal creature" who knows how to read her lines as well as act them. In New York she has confounded the news sleuths by refusing all requests for interviews, statements or news photographs. Only Maude Adams has dared to spurn the public eye so consistently and still succeed as an actress.

The arrival of La Gish saw the department of Norman MacOwen, the Scottish author in his "The Infinite Shoeblick" which played at the Marine Elliott.

Philadelphia and Chicago were wonderful to his play, MacOwen said, but he was disappointed in the New York reception. He had grimly thwarted managerial efforts to change the title and line of his play by the simple expedient of playing one of its roles, that keeping him always close at hand. So he returned to New York with his play still intact—perhaps too intact.

SUPREME COURT SAYS APPARATUS TO MAKE HOME BREW ILLEGAL

word was used in this loose way, and if the empty containers and the other objects seized were offered for sale in such a mode as to attract purchasers who wanted them for the unlawful manufacture, as we interpret the word, they were designed for the manufacture and could be seized.

"The implications in this decision are enormous," said one legal authority today.

"Why, strictly and rigidly interpreted, if a farmer stood a wagonload of car corn along the roadside with a sign on it saying that this grain inherently contained the ingredients for making liquor his wagonload could be seized and confiscated.

"Certainly such a sign would be 'offering for sale in such a mode as to attract purchasers who (might) want it for unlawful manufacture.' Similarly with corn sugar, malt, hops, bottles, kegs and corks. If the purchaser wants it for unlawful manufacture it's liable to seizure. If he doesn't, apparently it isn't so liable."

While this obviously is an extreme interpretation, nevertheless it served to draw attention to the manifold implications in the decision.

The prohibition authorities are going to step very gingerly in their application of the ruling. Both Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman and Dr. J. M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, declared today the policy of not going after home-brewers would not be changed by the decision.

Against the stores that make a particular appeal to customers for the sale of kegs, bottles, corks, labels, extracts, etc., however, it is going to be a different story. The authorities have long sought some means of reaching these institutions and the new decision seems to afford the way.

The home-brewer who makes and consumes his own product will continue to be free from molestation, but the man who supplies him with the implements and paraphernalia undoubtedly is in for a harrowing.

Before any change of policy is instituted, however, the decision is going to be analyzed most thoroughly.

"We are not going after the home-brewer who consumes his own product," said Lowman. "What we are after is the manufacturer who sells his product commercially. This decision may point the way for us."

Meanwhile, the legislation necessary for the transfer of prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the department of justice is but one step from completion. It has passed the house and been favorably reported to the senate.

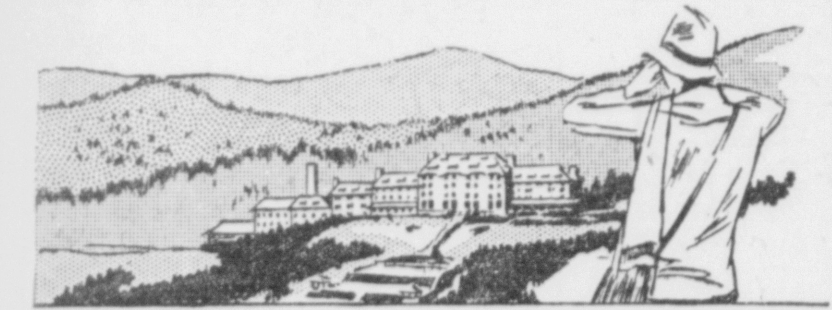

Once enforcement is in the department of justice a wholly new set of interpretations and policies may be put into effect to further complicate an already exceedingly complicated situation.

VIOLENCE FOLLOWS JAILING OF LEADER AND MANY INJURED

pate serious disorders or trouble, Gandhi said, "I hope there will not be any. I am taking every precaution to avert disturbances."

Mrs. Gandhi, the mantle of leadership falling on her shoulders with the arrest of her husband, spoke sharply of the Bombay government's action in seizing Gandhi. "I hope India will show its mettle and give a fitting reply to the government's unwarranted action," she said.

Though there were no disturbances, the atmosphere was tense in Bombay and in many other cities and all eyes were on the arrested leader's wife.

She has been instrumental in organizing women followers in Gandhi's campaign of boycott and illicit salt-making, and many felt that she would continue his work of organizing 100,000 volunteers to march upon the salt depots at Dharasada.

Processions moved about the city praising Gandhi and shouting the slogans of his teachings and a monster mass meeting was scheduled.

Gandhi, it was learned, before leaving with the government officers, entrusted a letter to one of his followers for Viceroy Lord Irwin. The contents of the letter could not be ascertained.

Native business was at a standstill in the majority of cities in protest against Gandhi's arrest.

Bombay merchants planned to continue their suspension of business over Tuesday and Wednesday and the stock exchange was expected to remain closed for two weeks.

More than a thousand merchants left Gujarat for Bombay partly to protest against the Nationalist leader's detention and partly because of their apprehension over possible disturbances.

Bombay mills opened normally, but forty of them were compelled to close down when their employees left work to participate in demonstrations arranged by the provisional congress.

Gandhi, held under an ordinance framed in 1927, can be held indefinitely without trial by the government.

WASHINGTON MAN IS LOW BIDDER

The state board of control released $84,320.56 Monday afternoon to finance construction of the new vocational training building at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's Home here.

It was disclosed also that A. L. Rhodes, Washington, D. C. contractor, was low bidder on the general contract for the trades building. Eight bids were submitted and the bid of Rhodes was understood to be $66,800.

Award of the contract, however, has not yet been made by Ralph D. Ridley, state architect.

A force 13,000 times stronger than gravity

Whirls away the harmful wax to give Sohio Motor Oil its controlled viscosity

Stubborn stuff—this non-lubricating, harmful wax. Lubrication experts long despaired of breaking its strangle hold on motor oil. Then Standard of Ohio engineers found a way.

First the finest paraffin base crude is chilled to 40° below zero. Then it is whirled in specially designed separators; whirled with a force 13,000 times stronger than the force of gravity. And... out flies the harmful wax.

This is one step... and an all-important one... in a long series of painstaking processes which make it possible to control every element composing the viscosity, or "Body", of New Sohio Motor Oil.

This "Controlled Viscosity" is your assurance that, summer or winter, you will get these advantages in New Sohio Motor Oil:

TOUGH BODY—Stands up under the strain and heat of modern high-speed motor operation.

FLEXIBLE BODY—positive lubrication in summer heat or winter cold.

SMOOTH BODY—an oilier oil, free from non-lubricating wax—provides perfect piston seal and prevents loss of power.

PURE BODY—contains the very minimum of carbon forming elements.

Make a real test of this modern oil in your motor. You'll be delighted with the results after you've drained out the old and put in a fresh crankcase-full of New Sohio Motor Oil... wherever you see the Red-White-and-Blue Sohio signs, and you see them everywhere in Ohio.
